

News from the Library

Newsletter of the Central Carolina Community College Libraries Vol. 13, No. 2

BookMyne Version 4.0 Coming Soon.

The new version of BookMyne is scheduled for release by the end of June 2013. The problems associated with downloading the app on Android devices should be resolved with the new upgrade.

Additional Research Guides are available now at the "Online Resources" page of the CCCC Libraries web site. The new subject guides include: cultures, sociology, religion, business/small business, social media, Spanish, marketing, libraries and information science, and more.

The new Faculty Library Services link found on the "About the Libraries" section of our web page, is a faculty resource for information on the various faculty-specific services the library offers. Overviews about library instruction, reserves, order requests, collection review, the Films on Demand database, plus lab and room reservations are featured. This information is especially helpful for new instructors and provides updates on new services for long term faculty.

The new Library Services & Policies link, found on the same web page, will benefit all library patrons. Check here to quickly find information about circulation, reference and instruction, computers and printing, library resources, interlibrary loans, study areas, and basic library policies. These basic library services will especially help students with study assignments and important library policies.

Library Survey Results

The library survey taken in early April revealed some interesting results. 1) Patrons still favor print versions of book over online books. 2) The number one desired improvement requested was for one password for logging in to all the library databases.

3) More touch-screen computers in the study rooms to convert them into collaborative study rooms was another desired improvement. 4) Harnett patrons are strongly in favor of creating a library computer lab. 5) The ability to download eBooks to mobile devices and to reserve study rooms online were also popular requests. The library will use these results in planning future resources and services. Thank you to all survey participants for your input.

Ella Taylor was the winner of the Candy Jar Contest. The number of jelly beans was 707. Congratulations Ella!

The "Blind Date with a Book" activity generated a lot of interest, especially for the fiction titles which were labeled only by literary genre. Perhaps you found a new author which you would like to "take out" again!

Lee Library Book Sale

Summer is weeding time and books from every subject area that have not been checked out in the last five or ten years, depending on the subject area, will be weeded. These discarded books will be on sale throughout the summer in the library for 5 cents per item.

Any and all faculty members who would like to "pull" or save some old classic titles in your discipline are welcome to help. Please call the library so we can be prepared with carts and guidelines. This is also an excellent opportunity to suggest new titles for purchase in your area as well.

Faculty Corner

The Library Standing Committee, which meets once every semester, approved new library instruction class objectives for all full length library classes and allowing for selected objectives for any sessions less than 50 minutes. At the completion of Central Carolina Community College library instruction classes, students will be able to:

1. Be familiar with the availability, location, and use of materials and services offered by the CCCC libraries. (i.e. information in library brochure)
2. Locate and use information found on the CCCC library web site.
3. Identify which resources to use for their assignments. (i.e. use of research guides, library integrated search, reliable sources)
4. Perform (hands-on) a basic search in databases related to their assignments and/or course of study.
5. Refine their search using Boolean operators and/or other limiting/expanding techniques.
6. Retrieve and use the information for their assignments. (i.e. print/download/email, evaluate search results, locate on the shelves)
7. Identify the information necessary for citing the source. (i.e. bibliographic information)

The Library Standing Committee serves as an advisory body regarding library resources, services, policies, and issues. It is comprised of both faculty and staff members and represents all campuses. If you would like to serve on the committee please contact Tara Guthrie, Director of Library Services at 919-718-7245 or tguthrie@ccc.edu.

More Light On: Films on Demand

Streaming videos are one way to accommodate visual and audio learners. An excellent library resource supporting these learning styles is the Films On Demand database found on the "Online Resources" page of the library web site. View this collection of eVideos and eVideo clips anytime, anywhere, 24/7. Broad subject categories currently available are: biology, business/economics, computers/technology, earth science, environmental science, family and consumer science, geography, mathematics, physical science, and technical education. There are thousands of full length titles and clips from which to choose.
