New 3D Printer!

The Harnett Main Campus Library is excited to announce the addition of 3D printing services! Students, Faculty and Staff are welcome to use the printer at any time. So far, patrons have used the 3D printer to create figurines from favorite shows or movies and anatomy models.

We are excited to see the things that patrons create with the 3D printer, as well as the ways that instructors will apply this technology in their classrooms.

To print a 3D model, just fill out the submission form at http://cccc.libguides.com/3D_Printing. All print designs must be approved by library staff. Printing costs $0.25 per gram of material used, and the total cost will be calculated before the print is sent to the printer.

Special thanks goes to Gary Beasley, Laser & Photonics Instructor, for making this possible using some of his department's LASER-TEC grant funds.

If you have any questions or ideas for the 3D printer, contact Grace Sharrar, the Instruction & Outreach Librarian at Harnett, by email or phone (gsharrar@cccc.edu or 910-814-8814).

Titanic: Ship of Dreams

Thursday, September 13th at 6:30 pm

Take a glimpse into 1912 and the 2,228 amazing people who boarded the most luxurious and largest ship in the world and sailed off into immortality. Dr. Melinda Ratchford will take audiences on a voyage in time to learn about the Titanic, as well as to see her extensive collection of Titanic memorabilia. Ratchford will introduce listeners to the young Robert Spedden and his Stief bear, Polar; the world's richest man and his beautiful new wife who had to leave New York society under a cloud of shame; and the elderly man and wife who tested the vow of "til death do we part."

This presentation will offer the chance to experience the world of courage, fear, love, and cowardice that is still alive over one hundred years after the Titanic's sinking. Dr. Ratchford has a B.S. in Social Science, a Masters in Library Education and a Doctorate in Education. She worked in North Carolina public schools for 31 years and taught 18 years as a fulltime Associate Professor at Belmont Abbey College. Her avocation has been a 60-year interest in the study of the R.M.S. Titanic and her history, and she has traveled to all of the sites that have Titanic connections.

This program is presented in conjunction with the NC Humanities Council and is free and open to the public.
