

Central Carolina Community College Selects a New Vice President

Sanford, May 7, 2012: Central Carolina Community College is pleased to announce the selection of the new Vice-President of Economic and Community Development, Dr. Pamela G. Senegal. Dr. Senegal brings over ten years of experience in the North Carolina Community College System. Dr. Senegal has held positions with Central Piedmont Community College in Corporate and Continuing Education as well as Durham Technical Community College's Continuing Education Division.

President Dr. Bud Marchant says, "Dr. Senegal's ability to lead a team and partner with the community is exactly what has made CCCC an institution of excellence for the past 50 years and Dr. Senegal will be a welcomed addition to continue this tradition." Dr. Senegal's experience as a visionary and a leader has established her with the North Carolina Community College System and the state of North Carolina as an expert and a valuable resource. Dr. Senegal has extensive community involvement and memberships with various organizations, including the Ronald McDonald House of Durham; she is a contributing writer to Diversity, Inc. as well as a member of the Association for Career and Technical Education.

Dr. Senegal's educational background includes undergraduate degrees in Political Science and Spanish, a Master's degree in Public Administration as well as a Doctorate in Adult and Community College Education from North Carolina State University.

Executive Vice President, Dr. Lisa Chapman says, "We are very excited about the experience that Dr. Senegal brings to CCCC. Her education, her industry and community college experience (in varied instructional areas), and her extensive community involvement will all be instrumental in leading the Economic and Community Development Division as it supports the College as an economic catalyst for the communities we serve. She has a proven record of leadership and brings an enthusiasm and vision that we can only expect to strengthen our College in its service to all of our stakeholders. Welcome, Dr. Senegal!"

Dr. Senegal is excited to join our team and has commented recently, "I am thrilled to be joining the Central Carolina family! I look forward to building on ECD's excellent record of serving the community's economic, workforce, and enrichment needs in creative and exciting ways." Dr. Senegal will start her new journey at Central Carolina Community College on Monday, July 2, 2012.
