

Silent Auction 2014

Central Carolina Community College's Educational Office Professionals have been active for over 30 years. In the last five years alone, our EOP membership has raised and awarded $10,000 in scholarship monies for our CCCC students. In order to sustain this level of giving, we are in need of your support. We would like to challenge every faculty and staff member to encourage all of our new employees to visit this year's auction. Only then will you be able to understand why this event has become a memorable, fun filled CCCC tradition.

The items we place in the auction are donated by EOP members, staff, faculty and friends. All donations are welcome and definitely needed during this time of year. So search through your cabinets and attics to find those boxes of 'never used or rarely used' items and send them our way. Then join us to see what others have donated and start your bidding. We can't wait to see you!

Central Carolina Community College's Educational Office Professionals Silent Auction is a:

- Way to shop a little for gifts of all kinds (homemade goodies, yum!)
- Fun time to share with friends
- Creative way to support our CCCC students
- Wonderful reason to step away from your work and relax with us
- Time for awesome FREE snacks... just for stopping by to say hello!

Our EOP family has always enjoyed visiting with the faculty and staff during our Silent Auction and oh the memories that we have made. (Just to name a few)

- Luther White would joke about needing a payment plan to pay for all of the items he had bid on and WON!
- Jim Felton's bids were so high, our members always wondered which items would be elevated to 'the most valuable' baked goods at the auction.
- And, who would have ever thought that Dr. Marchant would place a bid on 'Kermit the Frog'. Really, he did and he WON!

If you were a member in the past or want to become a member now, we would love to have you as part of our CCCCEOP family. We are looking forward to seeing you at this year's Silent Auction.
