Defining Sustainable Systems

SPEAKER: Andrew McMahan, Department of Sustainability, Department Chair, CCCC

Ever wonder what it takes for something to be truly sustainable? In this inaugural event of the Richard and Rebecca Hayes Sustainable Speaker Series, Andrew McMahan will introduce attendees to the guiding principles and axioms that define sustainable systems of any scale. The presentation will examine a variety of factors that contribute to the creation of these systems as well as challenges that threaten both short and long-term sustainable practices.
