

CCCC Adjunct Connection

Featured Adjunct: Stephanie Cook Veterinary Medicine (VetMed)

Stephanie Cook was pleased to have the opportunity to be one of the first two adjuncts hired by our Veterinary Medical Technology Program. Ms. Cook has been instructing at Lee Campus for 3 years, and was a runner-up for 2018 Adjunct of the Year. In 2013, Stephanie received an A.A.S. degree in VMT from CCCC and is a licensed Veterinary Technician. She continued her studies and received an A.S. in 2015.

Beginning with a work study opportunity, Stephanie's impressive performance led to her current adjunct faculty position teaching clinical practices, large animal lab for Summer Programs, and providing tutoring support to students.

Stephanie's approach in lesson delivery is to partner with students through their mutual love of animals and learning.

To increase engagement and bring concepts to life, she applies life stories and experience within her lessons. Students take away insight which grounds them, linking practical applications to future work experience.

Ms. Cook sites her outstanding department for their collaborative teamwork and substantive communication. Her goals for the future are to complete both Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Animal Science which will enhance her capability to support current and future Veterinary Medical Technology programs.

Featured Office: Financial Aid Zilma Lopes, Director

Central Carolina provides a lifeline, through the Financial Aid Program (FinAid) , for students needing assistance with funding college completion. The Office of Financial Aid has two key messages to impart to adjunct faculty:

- 1) Instructors play a crucial role in supporting student funding by timely entry of grades and attendance. Your diligence ensures Financial Aid's capability to meet response times for federal and state deadlines. A student's ability to draw their funding is dependent on strict compliance with attendance and grade entries.
- 2) The FinAid general email box , listed below, is the most efficient way to get in touch because they maintain daily coverage. Financial Aid representatives are available by appointment, walk-in and call-in options. Their website and contact information is listed below.

Check out Financial Aid's dynamic, easy-search web pages (link below), where you can click on "The Loop" for their latest Monthly Newsletter. Faculty can also refer students to Financial Aid to apply for Work Study opportunities!
