

Book of Your Heart II: Style Voice and Vision

This sequel to Book of Your Heart I defines style and voice by studying samples of established and student writers. Practical exercises with student writing will show how diction, sentence variety and grammar contribute to a more readable, marketable novel. For new and experienced writers of fiction.
Instructor: Stanton, Judith

Introduction to Writing Short Fiction

Students will learn the basic components of short fiction writing: scene structure, dialogue, openings and will complete one short story. Instructor: Moose, Ruth

Open Mic? Yikes? Reading Your Work in Public

“Open Mic? Yikes” covers how authors present their work in public and stresses practice, pacing, inflection, interpretation, and gaining confidence. Instructor: Stanton, Judith

Workshop: Revising Your Poems

Students will learn how to revise a first draft and master techniques for revising subsequent drafts. We will look at multiple revisions of a single poem, and students will spend time revising one or more poems of their own choice.
Instructor: Earle, Ralph

Write a Compelling Mystery

Published mystery writer Karen Pullen will teach students how to de-mystify the genre’s conventions and learn the elements of a compelling novel that keeps readers turning pages.
Instructor: Pullen, Karen

Writing Fast Fiction Fast

Through reading of published examples and writing exercises, students will be well equipped to be able to write their own stories. Markets for publication will be discussed.
Instructor: Moose, Ruth
