Instruction Section

Policy 4.2.3 - Field Trips

Instructional field trips reinforce the application of knowledge and skills students learn in the classroom and lab and instructors are encouraged to plan instructional field trips for experiential learning. The unique nature of field trips, however, involves additional risks and concerns outside of the classroom and lab instructional settings. To ensure that students are provided the opportunity for instructional field trips while protecting students, employees, and the College from potential risks, the President shall adopt appropriate procedures regarding instructional field trips.
